DEATH LIST INCREASES

Reports Show 350 Killed,
1200 Injured and 2,500
Buildings Destroyed

Relief Funds Have Been Started and Sufferers Will be Cared for.

New Orleans, La., April 27.—Three hundred and fifty killed, 1,200 injured, several thousand homeless in 46 towns, 2,500 homes and business houses ruined, is part of the record of Friday's tornadoes in the states of Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. Aside from this is the vast amount of damage and the possible loss of life in the country districts from which no reports have yet been made.

The number of dead will never be known accurately for the reason that about 300 of them were negroes, and they were buried in many communities without careful records being made of their numbers. While some of the first reports giving apparently reliable death lists have since proved untrue, nevertheless the remote places which were late in reporting their dead have served to hold the total death list uniformly around 350. The manner in which this death list has grown for two days in spite of continual subtraction from early reports has been a melancholy index of the interstate scope of the disaster.

Why the fatalities were so unusually large is apparent today from a glance at the mass of photographs which have arrived here from many portions of the tornado belt. They all tell the same story. Whole blocks of what were formerly little residences and cabins lie spread over the ground in separate boards. If a huge lumber pile had been scattered over these areas the number of individual boards, unattached to anything else, could scarcely have been greater.

Many of these planks show very few breaks where they were separated from the other construction. Under this mass of wreckage many hundred persons were buried, not one in a hundred escaping without some injury. The houses which were thus scattered about were mostly negro habitations. The homes of the whites held together better, and the photographs show some of them with only the upper half of the structure ripped off, but leaving below protection which must have saved scores.

The ruined towns have been visited by thousands of spectators, very many of whom went with a few dollars in their pockets to distribute among the needy.

Sheds from the wreckage have been made for hundreds. Small parties of men on horseback have gone through the country districts, taking inventories of the assistance needed and rendering aid. At least a dozen relief funds have been started in as many cities and towns, and in New Orleans Mayor Behrman has called a meeting of the heads of business institutions to take charge of relief from here.

"THE CAMPBELLS ARE COMING"

EIGHT MORE COUNTIES IN-STRUCT FOR THE EX-GOV-ERNOR SATURDAY.

Forty counties in All Have Declared for Hon. James E. Campbell for Senator.

Columbus, April 27.—Developments Saturday in the Democratic senatorial candidate situation lead to the belief that if the present clip is kept up, the most of the delegates, who come to the Democratic state convention a week from Tuesday will come riding on the band wagon of James E. Campbell.

Twelve counties were added Saturday to the long list of those which have selected delegates who will vote for the former governor as successor to Senator Foraker. In eight of these conventions were held and the delegates were placed under binding Campbell instructions. In two counties, the delegates were not instructed, but are Campbell men, and in the other two, Campbell delegates were selected at primary elections.

The counties which sent instructed delegations are Fayette, Jefferson, Lake, Meigs, Morrow, Scioto, Vinton, and Morgan. The ones sending un-instructed (Campbell) delegates are Noble and Ross, and the ones in which primaries were held are Richland and Seneca.

The addition of these twelve counties makes more than forty in all—nearly half the number in the entire state which have selected Campbell delegates—and the fact that they are not confined to any one section, but are scattered north, south, east and west, is a significant one. The counties which acted Saturday will be represented by 76 delegates.

PATIENTS

Are Applying for Mercurial Treatment of Tuberculosis at Colorado
Naval Hospital.

Washington, April 27.—A preliminary report on the treatment of tuberculosis by the administration of mercury has been made to the Surgeon General by Surgeon R. L. Wright, of the navy, who has been conducting investigations at the Naval Hospital at Ft. Wayne, Colorado.

In forwarding and commenting on this report, Medical Inspector C. T. Hibbert says the subject is engaging much attention of officers on duty at the hospital, and the treatment is being applied personally by Surgeons W. H. Bucher and Wright, in order that there may be no danger of infection by the needle to discourage the patients. The clinic, it is said, is steadily growing by voluntary applications for treatment, and the results so far are encouraging.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES LARG-

LAND COUNTY.

Present Legislative Incumbent Lost
Out on Account of Supporting County Option Bill.

Mansfield, April 27.—The Democratic primaries held in Richland county, Saturday, were the largest ever held, over 5,000 votes being cast. Great interest was manifested and a hot war was waged on the candidates for representative. The present incumbent, Hon. R. E. Hutchison, was a candidate for renomination and was opposed by L. S. Kuebler, the latter winning out by a majority of 220 votes.

Representative Hutchison was opposed on account of his vote for the Rose county option bill. Opponents of the measure worked untiringly to bring about his defeat and were successful. The county is safely Democratic by from 1,000 to 1,200.

Queen Margherita Reconciled and Will Present Fair American Priceless Presents.

New York, April 27.—A special cable from Florence, Italy, says:

Not only is the engagement of the Duke of the Abruzzi to Miss Katherine Elkins ratified, but those at court are discussing the royal wedding gifts which are being made ready for the bride. From a high source it is learned that Dowager Queen Margherita, who was reported strongly opposed to the match, has chosen from her treasure chest for the fair American a special necklace containing six splendid emeralds, set in diamond circles in old gold. The Dowager Queen will also give her nephew's bride a ruby plaque, which is being reset as an ornament for the hair, and some old pearl jewels of great beauty and value, which also are being reset.

Among the Duke's bridal gifts will be ropes of pearls. Queen Margherita has given two magnificent boucées of old lace for the wedding dress, it is said. It is further stated that part of the bride's trousseau is being made now in Paris. Several skillful needlewomen in Rome are engaged on a dress which, exquisitely embroidered, will have a round, low neck and loose, falling sleeves. Another gown is being made wholly of old lace and sewed with pearls worth $10,000.

Venice is named as the principal abode of the young couple, most probably, although the duke will retain his palace near Turin. It is likely, too, that a suite in the Quirinal will be at his disposal always. This suite is being prepared for them, and will be hung with tapestries from the royal storerooms.

VESSELS WHICH COLLIDED IN ENGLISH CHANNEL SATURDAY

Southampton, England, April 27.—The dismantling and salving of the wrecked cruiser Gladiator began today off Yarmouth. Divers cannot make an effective search of the hull for the bodies until the salvage work clears a way for them. It is believed the loss of life will total 28. The liner St. Paul has been dry-docked here for examination concerning the extent of her injuries.

ROMANTIC WEDDING

COMES TO DISASTROUS END FOR COUPLE ENGAGED TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Husband Borrowed Wife's Money and Disappeared—Police Cannot Locate Him.

St. Paul, Minn., April 27.—Engaged twenty years ago, reunited and re-engaged last August by an accidental meeting, married after the suicide of husband's first wife, and the second wife now deserted—this is the strange story of the marital tangles of Eva and E. C. Gilbert, the latter a traveling man formerly of New York.

Twenty years ago Gilbert met Miss Eva Plantow at La Crosse, and became engaged to her. They were about to be married when Gilbert looked too long on the flowing bowl and finally made a zig-zag approach to his fiancée's house which put a finish to his marital plans. She broke the engagement and they drifted apart.

Both were afterwards married. Gilbert's wife secured a divorce and several years later he married again. This time choosing a former friend. They did not agree and last June in Minneapolis, the second wife committed suicide. In August Gilbert accidentally met his old sweetheart, who was en route to Eau Claire to celebrate her mother's birthday anniversary. They renewed their 20 year old attachment and were married. During the short months of their engagement Gilbert borrowed $150 to pay, so he said, the remaining expense of his second wife's funeral.

Last Friday Gilbert disappeared. His wife says she has tried in vain to locate him, and the police are up against it, and say his trail doesn't lead anywhere at all. He has just vanished, that all, and his third wife is wondering why she was induced to sell some Eau Claire property, which went in part with the $150 funeral money.

MANY LIVES ARE LOST

and Slid Into and

Physicians, Undertakers and Coffins are Rushed to Scene of Awful Disaster.

Buckingham, Ont., April 27.—Rescuers are today digging away tons of earth and rock in an endeavor to save those who may have escaped death when the sliding mountain wiped out half of the little French hamlet of Notre Dame de Salette on the Lievre river.

Ottawa, Ont., April 27.—An appalling catastrophe occurred Sunday morning at which the little French village of Notre Dame de la Salette, on the Lievre river, a tributary of the Ottawa river, about 30 miles north-east of this city, was partially destroyed by a landslide. According to the latest estimates, 31 lives were lost. The place is remote from railway and telegraphic facilities, and what details of the occurrence are known to the outside world were brought by men who left the scene before all the bodies were recovered.

The death list may be even more appalling. The Lievre is a narrow canyon-like stream, flowing between towering walls of clay which lies on a lower strata of rock. Spring rains percolating through the earth caused the soapy mass to slide from the rock bed, polished smoothly by glacial action. The slide occurred without warning, a piece of territory half a mile long and extending back a hundred yards from the river, and on which were two dwellings, suddenly gave way and crashed right across the river, completely blocking the channel and overwhelming a row of six houses and other buildings on the opposite bank situated at a lower altitude.

The ground which slid away formed a sort of hill, about 100 feet higher than the surrounding territory. Of the known dead 11 bodies had been recovered at latest reports, but 30 coffins and a corps of doctors and undertakers left for the scene last evening. In several cases entire families were wiped out almost instantly while asleep in their beds. As in all French villages, practically all the families are intermarried, so that nearly every resident of the place has lost some relative. The scenes among the survivors of the catastrophe were heart-rending in the extreme but work was begun at once, with assistance from the surrounding districts, in digging out the bodies, some of which, however, may never be recovered. The stream is completely blocked by the great mass of earth and the water dammed up, which is causing an immense flood, threatening further destruction along the river.

Camille La Pointe's house stood first in the path of the avalanche. He and his family of 11 are known to have perished. Eight others, whose names have not been obtained, are known to be missing, and in the panic the rescuers are attempting to find definitely how many more are missing.

Aids Poor of Toledo by Turning Over
Land on Which They May Raise Vegetables.

Toledo, O., April 27.—Judson Harmon, candidate for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket and a possible presidential candidate, this afternoon turned over to the Rev. Henry Ward Hoover of the Settlement association, a 25 acre tract of valuable land to be used for the poor of the city. The plan is to allow each worthy person, who needs the help, one-quarter of an acre on which can be raised enough vegetables and truck to take care of four or five persons.

The work will be done systematically under supervision of the city park department.

The high wind blew down one of the Citizens Electric Light service poles on South Fourth street between Railroad and Harrison street at noon Monday and the pole being heavily weighted with a transformer it fell with a crash, carrying six wires, and after destroying the transformer, all became high tension. Safety Board Member George Beck being present shortly after the accident, called for a policeman, and Officer Hager was on duty until the current was cut off.

Detroit, April 27.—Because his wife refused to kiss him this morning, Thomas Kwiecinski, 48, of Lorain, attacked her with a butcher knife in their boarding house here, slitting her in the left side twice. Kwiecinski came to Detroit Thursday. In the struggle for the knife three of the husband's fingers were cut off. The woman will live.

ONE THOUSAND CIRCUS EMPLOYEES

Show Coming May 5th With 400 Horses, 20 Elephants and Many Wild Animals.

The circus is a small world of its own. The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus carries 1,000 employees, 400 horses, 20 elephants, a herd of camels, two score of cages of wild beasts in five trains, the unloading of which always is of great interest to thousands. There is no kind of amusement in the world that so completely sweeps up the entire human family as the circus. About everything else under the sun which comes labeled as entertainment will find some to rebel and turn away, but when it comes to a circus there is no voice of protest.

Among the top liners of the circus profession today may be found the Tasmania troupe, seven aerial experts. Their work borders on the marvelous. The genius and dexterity of the Tasmanians frequently brings forth loud and spontaneous applause from their fellow performers, who, like the spectators, never grow weary of their act.

The circus comes to Newark Friday, May 8. The show comes to Newark from Columbus and appears in Zanesville the next day.

AMUSEMENTS

ORPHIUM.
John A. West, the "Musical Brownie," is undoubtedly the headliner at the Orphium this week. Novelty musical acts may come and go, but Johnny will hold his own with the rest of them. He introduces lots of rousing comedy and in general puts on a musical turn that is a solid hit. Ruth Chandler in the monologue as the "happy old maid" is also a win-

RUTH CHANDLER.
As "The Happy Maid" at Orphium. Her in her turn and fills just the right opening on the bill. Mark and Laura Davis have a comedy sketch that might be better appreciated after seeing it a couple of times. However, it made good and they will doubtless get their share of the week's honors.

The skillful "feet" of Valoise Brothers are great. This is a part of the bill that none should miss, as both are decidedly clever and present a well arranged act.

EXTRA NUMBER.

Owing to the fact that the Parlette lecture was not up to the standard, the committee has arranged for an extra number. The eleventh and last number of the course will be given in Taylor hall Wednesday the 29th. All holders of regular course tickets will be admitted by showing their old tickets at the door. Persons having purchased single admission tickets will be given their tickets for their old stubs at the office. Dr. James B. Watson will deliver his famous lecture, "Pluck, Patriotism and Perseverance."

DANIEL SULLY.
Daniel Sully who appears at the Auditorium Thursday evening in his realistic reflex of Irish life in America, entitled "The Golden Rule," has won the distinction of being the representative Irish comedian of the American stage. Being to the manner born, Mr. Sully can give the proper coloring and effect and creates a characterization such as will command attention and respect.

FRA DIAVOLO.
Seats are selling fast for "Fra Diavolo" which is given tomorrow night. This production bids fair to take the laurels away from all heretofore attempted amateur productions. There has been an unusual exertion of effort to make the opera a big success, and it doubtless will be. The cast is composed of local people of more than ordinary ability, while the chorus is full of good voices and active people. Don't miss it.

HENRY PREDICTED THE SNOW STORM

The weather man predicts snow for Central Ohio on Tuesday. Now, this may sound to the average reader of the Advocate as a very ordinary item, but when it is taken into consideration that Henry Lucas, Newark's weather prognosticator, predicted that we would have a snow storm during the last week of April, it assumes considerable importance. If the prediction proves true Henry is surely entitled to wear the belt as the champion weather man of Central Ohio. Henry also predicted that we would have a frost during the first week in May.

MRS. ROSE KEHOE.
Mrs. Rose Kehoe, aged 72 years, died at her home, 225 Eastern avenue, East Newark, at 9:10 Monday morning, after an illness of five weeks. The deceased was born in County Kildare, Ireland, came to America 54 years ago, 28 years of this time having resided in Newark. The following children survive: Wil. H. H. Frederic and Edward, all residing in Newark. Mrs. Anna Tracy, of Sandusky, and Miss Margaret Kehoe and Mrs. Kate Talbot both of this city.

The funeral service will be conducted by the Rev. Fr. Watterson at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Interment will take place in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Washington, April 27.—The diplomatic effect of the cruise of the Atlantic fleet around South America is most important. Valuable diplomatic results arising from the visit of the armed "messengers of peace and good will" to Latin-American countries are largely due to the tactical representation of the government by Rear Admiral C. M. Thomas, second in command.

Rear Admiral Evans, unable because of the chronic rheumatic gout to endure the fatigue of dinners, dances, receptions and garden parties, combined with duties of fleet administration, delegated to Rear Admiral Thomas the task of exchanging amenities with the Brazilians at Rio Janeiro, the Chilians at Punta Arenas, and the Peruvians at Lima. The size and obvious efficiency of the force at their doors brought home to these countries and to the republics which looked on from a distance the might of their northern neighbor. It remained for the chief representative of the fleet to convey over the banquet boards and in his frequent association with officialdom and the people assurances that this force represented naught but friendship and protection of the interested of the American republics.

Rear Admiral Thomas accomplished this in a manner which proved happy and helpful sequel to the visit of Secretary Taft to Latin America in 1906.

OBITUARY

EMANUEL S. BOGARDUS.
Funeral services over the remains of Emanuel Spencer Bogardus, carpenter, who died Saturday of heart trouble at Columbus, were held at the residence Monday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. O. P. McMahon, pastor of the Wilson avenue Church of Christ. The body was shipped to this city at 12:30 over the Pennsylvania and interment was made at Cedar Hill cemetery.

LUCIUS SHACKLET.
Lucius Shacklet, 73 years of age, died at his home in Frazeeburg at 2 o'clock Monday morning, after an illness of nine months of paralysis. He was born in Virginia but has lived at Frazeeburg for the past 50 years. One sister, Miss Adelaide Shacklet, survives him. She is also a resident of that village. At the time of the war he enlisted in the 154th O. V. I. and was honorably discharged. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday, from the Disciple church at Perrinton, Rev. Mr. Walker officiating. The burial will be made in the Perryon cemetery.

MRS. SARAH TROUT.
Mrs. Sarah E. Trout, aged 70, died Sunday at 2 p. m. at her home two miles southeast of the city, having been ill for only a week with measles. The deceased lived alone and is a sister-in-law of William Rian of Mill street. The obsequies will be held in the East Newark M. E. Church at 11:20 Tuesday morning. Rev. Mr. Trout will officiate. Dorothy Dodd
LOW SHOES
$3.50 $3.00 $2.50
"DOROTHY Dodd" Shoes, being in great demand, are spuriously imitated. An imitation is the effort of weak people to build like strong people. Everything about "Dorothy Dodd" Shoes has been imitated except the name and the quality. They dare not imitate the name, and they haven't yet duplicated the quality. The young girl's style and the old lady's comfort are combined in the "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe.

How His Little Store Got a Big Ad. and a Bigger Trade.
(A Cantering Rhyme in Nine Cantos—Look For the Next.)

CANTO V.

For a little store 'twas a great big AD,
And it surely caused surprise
When folks came round and found that he had
The goods—he had told no lies.
So they bought and bought, and the cash poured in,
And George M. Good, with a goodly grin,
Soon rented a store that was big enough
To prove that his AD. was not a bluff.

INSANE PLANTER

Secures Revolver and Shoots Wife the Second Time—Suicides in the Orchard.

Memphis, Tenn., April 27.—Wallace Polk, 60, a wealthy planter at Cayce, Miss., became suddenly insane and shot his daughter and wife with a shotgun this morning. He then secured a revolver and sent a bullet through his wife's heart as she lay on the floor. She died instantly. Neighbors found his dead body and that of his daughter in the orchard near the house.

A BURGLAR'S STORY.

Told by an English Thief in the Language of Thieves.

Some time ago there appeared a somewhat curious book, "The Autobiography of a Thief in Thieves' Language." A glossary is provided for the benefit of those whose unfortunate ignorance of the predatory classes may render such aid necessary.

From one of the anecdotes related it appears that honor among thieves is not always to be found.

"One day," says the writer, "I went to Crofton and touched for a red toy (gold watch) and red tackle (gold chain) with a large lock. So I took the rattle home at once. When I got into Shoreditch I met one or two of the mob, who said: 'Hello! Been out today? Did you touch?'"

"So I said 'Usher' (yes). So I took them in, and we all got canon. When I went to the fence he bested (cheated) me because I was drunk and only gave £8 10s. for the lot. So the next day I went to him, and I asked him if he was not a-going to grease my duke (put money into my hand)."

"So he said 'No.' Then he said, 'I will give you another half a quid,' and said, 'Do anybody, but mind they don't do you.'"

"So I thought to myself, 'All right, my lad, you will find me as good as my master,' and left him. Some time after that affair with the fence one of the mob said to me:

"I have got a place cut and dried. Will you come and do it?"

"So I said: 'Yes. What tools will you want?'"

"And he said, 'We shall want some twirls and the stick (crowbar), and bring a Neddie (life preserver) with you.' And he said, 'Now don't stick me up (disappoint); meet me at 6 to-night.'"

"At 6 I was at the meet (trysting place), and while waiting for my pal I had my daisies cleaned, and I piped the fence that bested me so along with his old woman (wife) and his two kids (children), so I thought of his own words, 'Do anybody, but mind they don't do you.'"

"He was going to the Lyceum theater, so when my pal came up I told him all about it. So we went and screwed (broke) into his place and got thirty-two quid and a toy and tackle which he had bought on the crook (dishonestly). A day or two after this I met the fence who I'd done, so he said to me, 'We have met at last.'"

"So he said, 'What do you want to do me for?'"

"So I said, 'You must remember you done me, and when I spoke to you about it you said, 'Do anybody, but mind they don't do you.' That shut him up.'—London Tit-Bits.

SENATORIAL PRIMARY ELECTION FARCE

The Columbus Press-Post makes a lengthy and laborious effort in defense of its peculiar course on the subject of the proposed endorsement of a candidate for United States senator by the coming Democratic state convention. But its article is more in the nature of an effort to suppress pertinent facts than a candid and comprehensive statement of the truth.

In the official call for the state convention by the state committee, provision is made for the endorsement of a Democratic candidate for United States senator.

In view of that action by the state committee in issuing the call for the state convention, ex-Governor James E. Campbell became a candidate IN GOOD FAITH to secure the endorsement for United States senator.

Governor Campbell came out in the open as a candidate and with the assistance of numerous faithful, loyal and active Democrats all over the state, he has made an honorable and creditable effort to secure endorsements at the county conventions that have been held, thus securing instructions straight from the people for the guidance of the state convention in its action in making choice of the candidate.

Every other aspirant for the senatorship has had the same right to make a contest for the endorsement but none of them has done it, or at least, no one has come out in the open and pursued the policy of having his candidacy discussed publicly.

These pertinent facts are not given publicity by the Press-Post. Some forty counties or over have thus endorsed Governor Campbell, but for some decidedly peculiar reason none of the reports of these counties ever got into the news columns of the Press-Post. Every other newspaper in Columbus has printed the news from time to time of Democratic county conventions that endorsed Campbell, but all such news has been ignored or suppressed by the Press-Post, notwithstanding its profession as a newspaper.

It is observed, too, that as the number of counties endorsing Campbell increases, the more strenuous becomes the Press-Post in urging its primary election plan to decide the senatorial candidacy, which is in effect A REPUDIATION OF THE CONVENTION CALL of the state committee.

But no successful attempt has been made to show how the primary election plan can be carried out. From what source is the necessary funds to come to pay the expense of such primaries? The primary will be a deplorable farce unless it is properly conducted in every precinct in the state. And to properly conduct such a primary will require two judges and two clerks in each precinct, and these men will have to be paid for their services. Perhaps in certain cases some Democrats might be found to render the service without compensation, but when it would become known that some judges and clerks would have to be paid, then there would be a demand, with just reason, that all be treated alike, and the party either by its state or county organizations, would be wholly unable to finish the funds.

If any successful result occurs over the advocacy of this primary election proposition it will simply be to defeat endorsement by the state convention, for there is no possibility of complete provision being made for primaries to be held on election day.

For these reasons, if no other, the primary election plan is wholly impractical, and every man of political experience and sense knows it.

WONDERFUL NEW PINK

Flower of Great Beauty Produced by Woman Florist.

FIVE YEARS SPENT AT TASK.

Fragrant Blossom Combines All Fine Qualities of Prosperity and Lawson Specimens—Seals Hybrid Possesses Much Desired Long, Stiff Stem and Firm, Expansive Flower.

After five years of almost continuous experimenting and study in the hybridization of plants Mrs. Edward B. Beals of Eastern avenue, Springfield, Mass., recently succeeded in reproducing a pink from the Prosperity and Lawson flowers which promises to bring her the distinction of being the discoverer of the finest pink in the world.

The new flower combines all the rare qualities of both its progenitors.

Mrs. Beals, who, with her husband, has for years been interested in the work of hybridization and who is a follower of the writings and work of Luther Burbank, five years ago began experimenting with different species of pinks that had a superior reputation with the purpose of rearing a flower that might take a place in the world of floriculture as a perfect blossom.

The much discussed Lawson pink is known as a profuse and early bloomer, but it has always been recognized by florists as lacking the desirable long stem. Moreover, the calyxes of the blossoms are often liable to burst.

On the other hand, while the Prosperity, one of the noted pinks of today, has an extra long stem, its blossoms late in the season and lacks the stiffness of stem which the shorter stemmed Lawson possesses.

After numerous experiments Mrs. Beals hit upon the idea of rearing a hybrid flower by using the Prosperity pink as the sire and the Lawson as the seed parent.

For three years after she had first begun these experiments the flowers produced seemed to possess few marked points of superiority over its parents, and last year the experimenter was on the point of discontinuing her work with these two blossoms and trying others when one day she found among her blooms a wonderful pink that seemed to conform in all points to the one which she was seeking to produce.

Carefully she watched this flower and soon found that the stem was both long and stiff, the blossom firm, the calyx full and unbroken and the color perfect in hue, while the flower had all the expansiveness and fragrance of the high class parent.

Today the new pink is a sensation among all the florists in New England. It conforms in all respects to a perfect pink. No other similar flower possesses the stiffness and fragrance which the latest Beals hybrid possesses.

The bothouses where Mr. and Mrs. Beals have been doing their experimenting are filled with great masses of this new flower, some in pure white and some in deep and light pink and some a delicate combination of these colors. The hybrid also produces in flaming crimson and a lighter scarlet and is today being sent to all parts of New England by the experimenter not only because of the increasing market demand for it, but because of the future which has made it a novelty among florists everywhere in the east.

GREAT ENGINEERING FEAT.

Iron Mountain Drainage Tunnel Hits Desired Level to the Inch.

A remarkable feat in mining engineering was recently finished when, after driving for two years, the station at the 900 foot level of the Iron Mountain mine was tapped by a tunnel more than a mile long at the desired spot to the inch, says a dispatch from Helena, Mont. For years the property was a regular producer and paid a million in dividends. It had to be abandoned because of the expense of pumping water to so great a height. Then the tunnel was decided upon, and now the mine is being drained by gravity.

Great fear was expressed by the state mine inspector that the heavy water pressure would cause a break and drown the workmen, but this was avoided by running a zigzag crosscut. The mine is owned by Helena, New York, Missouri and Philadelphia capitalists.

Freak In Vases.
Society's latest fad in London is the possession of vases with real live frogs clinging to the exterior as ornaments. For this purpose a species of the green tree frog is used. Thousands of them are sent to England every year to be kept as pets. They have sucker feet and placed on a vase of rounded shape will continue to walk around and around until they are tired and then rest. They never desert the positions to which they are assigned, and in consequence the fad has taken a strong hold in London.

There are over a million different kinds of microbes, and many a man imagines that each one is after him.

Dare to do right and you will soon have a reputation for being poor but honest.

HUMAN SIDE OF JIM HARGIS.

How It Was Revealed When a Photographer Snapped the Feudist.

Judge Jim Hargis, the Kentucky feudist and "king of Breathitt county," who was recently killed by his son, was first of all a vain man. He knew the extent of his power in the region, where law did not count until Floyd Byrd became prosecuting attorney, and it satisfied him. But his vanity had its limits. Hargis detested photographers and photographers, says E. S. Linner in Harper's Weekly. His enemies say that the reason was not a lack of vanity, but that the Breathitt king did not want his features too well known to the people of other sections of Kentucky. For years he had decreed at intervals that no one should ever take a photograph of him. During the feuds several during photographers who went to Jackson for the purpose of snapping the king were glad to escape with their lives. They did not return until the eve of the first trial of Jim Hargis for the Callahan murder. The judge knew of their presence and vowed that his rule would not be broken. Of course all the leading papers of Kentucky had photographers at Jackson, especially to get a picture of Jim Hargis. The Louisville Courier-Journal had sent a young man named Robert Hooe.

When the day came for the opening of the trial, the photographers were lined up along the main street from the store of Hargis to the courthouse. The accused waited in the rear of his store until the hour arrived for court to open, then covered his features with a quilt and made his way in that manner to the trial.

Several of the newspaper men thought that Hargis had won out and gave up the attempt for the time being. Hooe, however, went around to the rear of the courthouse and concealed himself near the entrance. His idea was that, while Hargis was bound to be covered with his quilt if he left by the front entrance, he might discard it in leaving by the rear. This proved to be the case. When recess came, Hargis, accompanied by some of his men, left by the rear way. The Courier-Journal man thereupon came out from his concealment and snapped the judge before he could hide behind one of his friends.

Hargis, in a rage, shook his fist and swore at the photographer. Several of his friends, knowing the rule of the judge, seized the Courier-Journal man and were about to smash his camera when the judge interposed. "Don't boys. His paper expects it of him, and I suppose he's got to make a living." The ice was broken. Hargis posed for several pictures and was never reluctant to be photographed afterward.

THE EMMANUEL MOVEMENT.

Dr. MacDonald Says It Has Strength of Other Systems Minus Weakness.

The Rev. Dr. Robert MacDonald of the Washington Avenue Baptist church in Brooklyn preached his second sermon a few nights ago in a series of four on the Emmanuel movement, the new Boston system of curing nervous derangements by complementing science and religion.

From what Dr. MacDonald said, it would appear that the leading traits about the new system were its eclecticism of method, its catholicity of spirit and the general intelligibility of its nature.

"The new Emmanuelism," he declared, "dars use help from all sources—from psychology, from medicine, mental suggestion, Christian Science and faith cure alike—taking the strength of all, discarding the weakness of all until we have a system in which no rational or moral or scientific inconsistencies can be found. Our work is distinctly scientific and assuredly Christian. It could be called scientific Christianity.

"God with us" is a platform on which all men can unite and which suggests a power that all men crave. 'The cause of all our ills,' said Tolstol, 'is that men have lost their sense of God.' The new movement, Dr. MacDonald said, would do much to invigorate Christianity.

Two more sermons will complete the series of sermons. Then Dr. MacDonald will give a new series dealing with the subject from a constructive point of view.

The Airship in War.

Airships and their value in future warfare are thus treated by Henry B. Hersey in an article published in the March Century entitled "Experiences in the Sky." The dirigible balloon, or airship, as it is usually called, is now an established success and is sure to play an important part in future wars. The French government is taking the lead in the matter and will soon have a whole fleet of aerial cruisers capable of sailing over the enemy's defenses and dropping hundreds of pounds of dynamite into their fortifications or of gliding quietly out at night over a battle ship and dropping down on her berthed wreck, with all on board, to the bottom of the sea. Germany is also making rapid strides in this work. Count Zeppelin, working under the patronage of the government, has built the largest and probably the most scientifically planned airship ever constructed.

BENCHES FOR CONGRESS.

Plan to Furnish the Lower House Like English House of Commons.

The interior arrangement of the chamber of the house of representatives will be changed completely by the time congress meets again if a resolution prepared by Representative Boutell of Illinois passes, as it is expected it will pass in a short time.

The plan is to remove all desks and chairs, substituting therefor benches such as are used in the English house of commons. This would give the members more elbow room and breathing space. Mr. Boutell has found that there is a great unanimity of opinion that the change should be made. The members say the advantages of the plan will be many, chief among which will be the removal of one of the principal objections to enlarging the membership of the house.

The desirability of the change has become apparent from the fact that the house is now so large that only a few of its members can make themselves heard in all parts of the chamber. Complaint has been made frequently that with desks in the house chamber it is impossible to get members to fix their attention on the proceedings.

How to Care For Silver.

In the first place, keep it bright. If never allowed to get into a deplorable condition, its cleaning will be no hardship, says the Washington Star. Regularly once a week wash it thoroughly in very hot soap suds. Remove one piece at a time from the suds, polish it at once and drop into very hot clean water. When ready to dry, take only one piece at a time from the hot water, dry at once and polish with chamois skin or flannel. This method is much better than heaping the wet silver on a tray to get cold before dried. Silver not in general use should be wrapped in white tissue paper and kept in a cotton flannel bag. A special kind of tissue paper and flannel for this purpose can be bought at a reliable silver smith's. Mark each bag plainly with its contents. When wanted, silver kept this way will always be found bright.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION, MAY 5

Columbus, April 27.—Arrangements have been almost entirely completed for the Democratic state convention to be held at the old auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. All the committees have been appointed except the committee on entertainment, which is not quite complete.

The first session of the convention will be held at night instead of in the afternoon, being called to order at 7:30 o'clock by Edward H. Moore of Youngstown, who has been selected for temporary chairman. Senator Benjamin F. Gayman will be temporary secretary.

It is expected that the temporary organization will be made permanent. Rev. Paul Hein of Valley Crossing, has been chosen chaplain of the convention.

Bert S. Bartlow, sergeant-at-arms of the senate, will be temporary sergeant-at-arms.

The committee on arrangements for the convention is composed of James Ross, chairman; Charles A. Kloebe, chairman of the state central committee; H. G. DeWoe of Columbus; Homer Southard, of Marysville; Henry Kampf of Piqua, and F. J. Herr of Columbus.

The convention will hear the address of the temporary chairman at the opening of the first session, and will then hear reports of committees, to have the track clear for the selection of candidates the next day, when the convention will be called to order at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

The meeting of the state central committee will be held at 10 o'clock in the morning the first day of the convention; the various district meetings will be held at 2 o'clock, and the meetings of committees at 4 o'clock.

The district committee meetings will be held at the following places: First and second, west assembly hall, Great Southern hotel; Third, south assembly hall, Great Southern hotel; Fourth, board of public works, state house; Fifth, finance committee room, house of representatives; Sixth, dairy and food commissioner's office; Seventh, auditor's office, executive room; Eighth, writing room Great Southern hotel; Ninth, auditor's office, Room 2; Tenth, supervisor of public printing; Eleventh, state fire marshal's office; Twelfth, east assembly room, Great Southern hotel; Thirteenth, attorney general's office; Fourteenth, secretary of state's office; Fifteenth, insurance commissioner's office; Sixteenth, fire marshal's office; Seventeenth, Great Southern, room 634; Eighteenth, railway commission hearing room; Nineteenth, treasurer's office; Twentieth and Twenty-first, Parlors F and G, Great Southern.

The committee on resolutions will meet in the east assembly hall at the Great Southern; committee on rules and order of business, Room 533, Great Southern; on permanent organization, Room 433, on credentials.

Sergeant-at-arms Bartlow Saturday appointed his assistants, being one from each county in the state. The assistant from Licking county is Edward Gilbert of Newark.

How to Make Slips For Waists.

Slips to keep fancy and dressy waists free from dust when hanging in the closet may be made of cambric or some other cheap material. They are made of two oblong pieces of material sewed together in exactly the same manner as a pillowslip is made. It does not need to be as large as a pillowslip, but it must be plenty large enough, so that it does not crease the waist. On one side of the opening at the top sew two buttons, each one six or eight inches from the ends. On the opposite side in corresponding places work buttonholes. Place the slip over a hanger and draw the slip up over it, then button at the top, and you will have a fine protector for your waist. Slips for skirts may be made in the same manner, making them lots longer, of course.

THE NEW LAW FOR THE INCREASE OF WIDOWS' PENSIONS

Congressman Ashbrook calls the Advocate's attention to the new law, passed by Congress on April 19, increasing widows' pensions, by which all widows will receive $12 per month, being an increase in a majority of cases of $4 per month.

Mr. Ashbrook explains that Colonel W. L. Curry, commissioner of soldiers' claims is sending out a synopsis of the new law to pensioners for their information. The new law will affect all widows, whether they be the widows of civil war or of the Mexican, Spanish-American or Indian wars, or widows of those who have served in the regular army or navy.

DANGER OF THE WALL COLLAPSING

A small force of men who were engaged in the razing of the building on the west side of the public square, where Mr. Eli-Hull proposes to erect his new six story building, gave up their work Monday on account of the dangerous condition of the walls on the south side of the structure. About eight regular men who were also on the job, decided to remain and assist in the removal of the old building. The structure on the south is protected by but a very old weathered wall of brick. In razing, the Hull building it will be necessary to remove all support from the wall on the north of Georgeotti's fruit and candy store. In this case, there is danger of the collapse of the structure, as the wall has probably been there for years.

DAMAGE BY FIRE

OLD OPERA HOUSE BLOCK WAS IN DANGER OF TOTAL DE-STRUCTION.

Flames Caused by Hotplate—Captain
Williams Injured by Falling of Skylight.

About 8 o'clock Monday morning an alarm of fire was sounded and called the Central company to the rear of the Elliott Hardware company, on West Main street, where a nasty fire had started in a room attached to the Bismark Cafe, in the rear of the old opera house building, owned by A. T. Fulton of Mt. Vernon, and his brother, W. D. Fulton, of this city. At the time a strong wind was blowing, and as the fire had already gotten a good start, the East End and North End companies were called. All the companies were quickly on hand and the firemen began a fight with one of the most wicked fires they had been called on to fight in a long time. The fire, which originated from a hot plate setting fire to some oil in a can, quickly ate its way through the stairway leading to the A. I. U. hall. It entered the small rooms formerly used as dressing rooms when the building was used as an opera house, and from here it burned its way through the great door leading into the hall proper. The heat and flames were so great that the fire reached the ceiling and from there worked its way into the ventilators. From the very start the firemen did effective work and it was through their heroic efforts that the adjacent buildings were saved.

At the very first alarm of fire dense volumes of smoke poured out of the rooms at the rear of the Elliott Hardware building, and it looked that as if the whole row of buildings was in danger. The firemen, however, mounted the burning stairs, and with three streams of water fought the fire inch by inch, and finally succeeded in getting it under control and in extinguishing it.

The greatest loss was to the A. I. U. hall building, although the American Insurance Union which occupied the hall, sustained a big loss, nearly half of their furniture and paraphernalia being destroyed by fire and water. The A. I. U. carried insurance to the amount of $1,200.

Water did considerable damage in the Pittsburgh store as well as in the Bismark and Elliott Hardware store. At this writing it is impossible to give an accurate estimate of the loss by fire and water, although it is said that it may reach several thousand dollars.

During the fire Captain Ned Williams of the Central company, was severely injured. He was engaged at work fighting the fire in the main hall of the A. I. U. and was standing directly under the big skylight when a portion of it became overheated, gave way and fell, one of the large pieces striking him on the left shoulder, cutting through his clothes, and inflicting an ugly gash three inches in length and cutting to the bone. The injury was attended to by Dr. Willard Rank.

FAIRVIEW.

The students of the Fairview school gave an agreeable surprise to their teacher, Mr. Fred Stephens, last Friday, April 24. It being the closing school day of the year, they decided to commemorate it by giving a dinner. All came with well filled baskets. This being entirely unsuspected by the teacher no program had been arranged. But they met for a social time which certainly cannot be denied that they had. Besides the attendants of the school, a few more who shared these pleasures of the day are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. George Gutridge, Mr. Robert Lampton, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Daniel Bratton, Mrs. Lettie Gutridge, Mrs. William Bixler, Miss Sarah Lampton, Mr. Charles Krazier, and wife, Mrs. Clyde Eagle, Mr. Will Hazlett and wife, Miss Anna Cooper, Miss Martha Gutridge, Miss Alai Bipler, Miss May Stephens, Mrs. Elsworth Cook, Miss Mary Gutridge, Miss Annie Clague, Mrs. Smith Stephens, Mr. Earl Gutridge, Mr. John Parr and wife, Miss Floria Fulk, Mrs. Susan Bratton, Miss Leola Jeffers.

TO ITALY IN TINY BOAT.

Italian Yachtsman to Make Perilous
Trip From New York on a Wager.

Carlo de Peloggio, an enthusiastic young Italian yachtsman, is going to make an attempt to cross the Atlantic in a twenty-four foot sailboat. The start will be made from New York harbor on July 1, and the ultimate destination is to be Genoa, Italy. The daring task that Mr. de Peloggio will undertake is the outcome of a wager of $5,000 between him and the Marquis Zanotti of Rome.

These two yachtsmen have long been rivals in Mediterranean waters, and when Mr. de Peloggio made the assertion that he thought it possible to cover the long expanse of ocean between New York and the birthplace of America's discoverer the marquis offered to make the bet that he would find it too difficult a proposition for a boat of the dimensions named to navigate the long stretch.

Mr. de Peloggio will be accompanied on his trip by only one person. His partner will probably be the Viscount de Lemoignon of Paris. Special precaution will be taken against the buffeting of the heavy waves by having the craft practically wholly covered. The only open space will be just enough for purposes of navigation. Regular cutter rigging will be used.

Although there is no time limit set by the Marquis Zanotti for the accomplishment of the trip, the young sailor says that with favorable weather conditions he is confident of making the port of Genoa in forty days from the start.

KANSAS NATIONAL FOREST.

Plans of the Government to Plant
Trees at Garden City.

Something of the future of the national forest at Garden City, Kan., was outlined the other morning at Kansas City by A. E. Oman, forest assistant of the government service. Mr. Oman was in Kansas City on his way to Garden City, where he will spend several months establishing a nursery.

"The government has $80,000 acres reserved at Garden City," Mr. Oman said. "Additions to this are contemplated that will set aside more than 100,000 acres. We expect to plant about half a million seedlings a year, covering about 500 acres. Black and honey locust, osage, orange, Russian mulberry and some pine species will be used."

"The public need not fear that the government will have a monopoly on his national forest land. Grazing will be allowed, with some restrictions, of course. Measures must be taken to protect the young trees from fire and cattle."

PARCELS POST BY AUTO.

Passengers Also Would Be Carried
Under Plan Proposed in the House.

Representative William Bourke Cockran, formerly of Tammany Hall, recently introduced by request a bill to provide for the establishment on certain free delivery routes of a service to be known as the auto post coach service for the transportation of human beings at postage stamp rates and for the transportation of parcels less than six feet long.

The auto coaches would have a capacity of ten persons and 1,500 pounds of baggage. Adults would pay 10 cents a trip, children 5 cents and children going to school 5 cents a round trip. For baggage the rate would depend on the size alone.

As a further condition of this auto coach service on rural routes the bill provides for post cabins for the convenient collection and delivery of merchandise and baggage "and for the shelter of travelers."

NOISELESS SHOT DEVICE.

Worcester Man Invents Firearm Attachment Different From Maxim's.

Oliver A. Smith of Worcester, Mass., has invented an apparatus for making noiseless the discharges of all kinds of firearms. It is wholly different from that invented recently by Hiram Percy Maxim. Smith's invention can be carried about in a vest pocket and attached at a moment's notice.

Smith regards it as a remarkable coincidence that at the time his invention was being perfected the same idea was being worked out secretly by Maxim hundreds of miles away.

Smith does not allow close scrutiny of his attachment, but from a demonstration it seems to be a kind of cap, with a narrow bar across the top, that fastens on to the end of the barrel or muzzle, adding an inch or more to its length. The outlet is the exact bore of the shot, but projecting inward the bore increases slightly.

New Umbrella Handle.

Even though summer weather is supposed to be perfect, umbrellas are sometimes necessary, and for the very newest is made a detachable circular vanity box about one and a half inches in diameter, which may be fastened to the handle. Thus in clear weather the box may take its place among the dangling tridles on the wrist, but in wet weather it may be instantaneously attached to the umbrella. The tiny aid to beauty includes the powder and puff, and in the lid is fastened a diminutive mirror which magnifies the face.

FESTIVAL OF THE DEAD.

Eskimos Provide Food and Clothes For Returning Ghosts.

The natives of the Yukon river region hold a festival of the dead every year shortly before Christmas and a greater festival at intervals of several years. At these seasons food, drink and clothes are provided for the returning ghosts in the clubhouse of the village, which is illuminated for the occasion with oil lamps. Every man or woman who wishes to honor a dead friend sets up a lamp on a stand in front of the place which the dead one used to occupy in the clubhouse. These lamps, filled with seal oil, are kept burning day and night until the festival is over. They are believed to light the shades on their return to their old home and back again to the land of the dead. If any one fails to put up a lamp in the clubhouse and to keep it burning, the shade whom he or she desires to honor could not find its way to the place and so would miss the feast. When a person has been much disliked his ghost is sometimes purposely ignored, and that is deemed the severest punishment that could be inflicted upon him. After the songs of invitation to the dead have been sung the givers of the feast take a small portion of food from every dish and cast it down as an offering to the shades. Then, each pours a little water on the floor so that it runs through the cracks. In this way they believed the spiritual essence of all the food and water is conveyed to the souls. With songs and dances the feast comes to an end and the ghosts are dismissed to their own place. The dancers dance, not only in the clubhouse, but also at the graves and on the ice if the dead met their deaths by drowning. On the eve of the festival the nearest male relative goes to the grave and summons the ghost by planting there a small model of a seal spear or of a wooden dish, according as the dead was a man or a woman. The totems of the dead are marked on these implements. The dead who have none to make offerings to them are believed to suffer great destitution; hence the Eskimos fear to die without leaving behind them some one who will sacrifice to their spirit, and childless people generally adopt children lest their shades be forgotten at the festivals.—New York Tribune.

The Molders were given the same dose they gave Lancaster Friday, when the Mansfield Tigers appeared at Wehrle park Sunday afternoon, and when the first inning was over the Mansfield boys had shot six runs across the platter. They scored four more during the rest of the game and the Molders also got into the harness, and batted four runners home, but the lead was too great and the game was lost to the men from Convict town.

The day was warm and an ideal one for baseball, and the people thought the same thing, for 2,000 fans gathered at the ball yard to see the opening game of the series. The trouble all started when the Tigers got to Kelly good and strong, and before he was pulled the game was chalked against Newark. Beeman, another recruit who replaced him was a trifle wild, and except for the fourth inning he pitched nice ball.

Quinn, the first man up, was passed to first on four wide ones. Flood was also given a walk, and Channel struck out Quinn and Flood both stole and on Kettler's double both men scored. Biery singled and Kettler scored. Reynolds was walked, stole second, and on Allen's double Jewell and Reynolds scored. Yarnell fled out to Gygil, and Quinn, up for the second time this inning, grounded out. Kelly was pulled after Jewell's triple, but Beeman was unable to stop the hitting streak.

Newark failed to come any way close to scoring in their half of the first. The Tigers were retired quickly in their half of the second, and then the Molders got busy. Murray grounded out and Kid Dowling with a do or die look on his face, walked to the pan. Yarnell placed one over that just suited the kid and he swung. When he stopped traveling he was on third, and on Winters' single he scored. Beeman sacrificed him to second and Abbott grounded out to Reynolds.

Both sides did a little slugging in the third, but fast work kept either side from scoring. In the fourth Quinn was walked, Flood sacrificed him to second and Quinn stole third. Channel walked and stole second, and on Kettler's single to right both Quinn and Channel tallied. Kettler tried to reach second, but Abbott threw the ball to Murray, who relayed it to Dowling and Dowling touched Kettler out. Biery reached first on a bad throw of Dowling's and went to second on Jewell's hit. But went to sleep off the second brick and Beeman threw the ball to Murray who touched him out.

It was three up and three down for Newark in the fourth, and three up and three down for Mansfield in the fifth. Beeman led off in the fifth and fled out to Kettler in left. Abbott singled, went to second when Snyder was walked, went to third on Locke's grounder to Yarnell, and Snyder was thrown out at second. Locke reached the first corner on the fielder's choice. Abbott took a long chance and made a beautiful steal of home plate, and Gygil fled out to Flood.

Quinn singled in the sixth, but the next three men went out in order. Smith and Murray both singled in the latter half of the sixth, but a fast double put them out. Winters fanned. There was nothing doing for either side in the seventh, but in the eighth the Tigers chalked up another run. On an error of Dowling's Allen reached first, Yarnell fled out to Gygil and Allen scored on Quinn's double. Flood fled out to Lock and Quinn was out on a quick return of the ball to Murray.

The Molders failed to connect in the eighth, and the final inning was on. Channel whiffed. Kettler singled and stole second, and on an error of Dowling's, he reached third. Biery struck out. Jewell dumped one down to Gygil, who fumbled the ball, and watched Kettler score and Jewell take first. Jewell tried to steal second, but was thrown out by Beeman. On an error of Jewell's Beeman reached first, Abbott fled out to Channel. Snyder singled and Beeman took third, Locke walked and Snyder moved up a peg. Gygil sacrificed to left field and Beeman scored. On Smith's double Snyder crossed and Murray ended the game by lining one into the mit of Reynolds.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

Although there was a high wind, a weather prediction of rain and many clouds, about 400 fans were at the ball yard Saturday afternoon to see Newark take the second game of the down states, and they did it in a manner entirely satisfactory to Manager Bob Berryhill.

The support given Panabaker, a young sidewheeler, was of the best, and only one error was costly. He pitched nice ball and will undoubtedly win a place on the Molder lineup. Scanlon had poor control and it looked in the second inning as though he would take the trip Justus took Friday. Murray was the busy man and worked hard all the time for the four putouts and four assists that he had.

Carter started things off strong in the first when he walked up with his stick and rapped out a lovely single. On Brown's smash he took second and then third when Panabaker fumbled Humphries' spinner and threw bad to first. Heller dumped one down to Gygil in the attempt to squeeze, but Carter was thrown out at the plate by Gygil, Heller taking first on the fielder's choice. Calhoun cracked one out to right field and Abbott dropped the ball. He recovered nicely and threw Heller out at second, Murray covering the bag. Yost grounded out and Newark had pulled out of a mighty tight hole with only one tally against them from the Lanks' run box.

Abbott grounded out and Snyder was given a life. He took a big lead off of first and slipping on the wet ground, failed to beat Scanlon's throw to Gowdy and was out. Locke struck out. In the second Gowdy fled out to Panabaker and Piper drew a free ride. Murray slammed the hide to Gygil and completed the double by catching Scanlon.

In the second the game was almost the same as the one Friday, for although Newark only scored three runs, instead of seven, yet every man on the team faced "Mine Herr" Scanlon and Abbott and Snyder got two looks at him just for luck. Gygil, first up, took his base on wild ones and went down to second when Smith was hit on his thought factory by one of the heavens' lost ones. Murray clipped a high one that Piper got under and Cap walked to the bench. Dowling singled and Gygil and Smith registered at the home brick. Winters' single placed him on and when Panabaker walked he moved a notch. Abbott came up for the second time this inning, and singled scoring Dowling. Snyder dumped one down and landed on first; but Heller shot the pill to Piper and Winters was out on the door mat.

In the third both Carter and Brown were thrown out at first, and then Humphries trotted to first with Panabaker's compliments. He went to second when Heller was walked and scored on Calhoun's Texas leaguer back of second. Heller tried to make a notch on the play and was out on Locke's throw to Smith. Newark failed to connect in their half and the fourth passed with the players going out in one, two, three order.

In the fifth Lancaster took a new grip on things when Carter doubled after Scanlon struck out. Brown was not equal to the emergency, and went out on an easy one to Murray, who snapped it to Gygil. Humphries was on deck, though, and Carter rammed home on his single. On an error of Murray's Heller reached first, but he died there, for Calhoun grounded to Smith who threw him out.

Lefty Snyder came to the pan with blood in his eye, mad because the Lanks scored, and he determined to do things—and he did. A crack, and the ball took the same course it did in the first game when Carter knocked a homer. It all happened the same way and Snyder completed the circuit, making the first home run of the season for the Molders. Locke followed and walked took a big lead.

MALONEY ROUNDING THIRD ON WAY TO PLATE.

Maloney, Brooklyn's Center Fielder, rounding third on way to plate in game in which the "Dodgers" beat the Giants by score of 4 to 1.

and stopped on third on Gygil's hit. Smith grounded and Murray fled out, and things looked dark for the runners, but Dowling never flinched and cracked out a peach that scored both Locke and Gygil and would have landed him on third, only the umpire was watching and saw that he failed to touch the second station. He called him out and the side was retired. No more scoring was done on either side and the last four innings rolled along quietly enough with an occasional play to liven things up.

HOMERS.

Lefty Snyder won the season's shaving ticket at Camp & Gibson's barber shop, 28 West Main street, by knocking the first home run on the home grounds this season.

Eddie Dixon, commonly known as "Pickles," one of the Advocate's newsboys, appeared in a new uniform Saturday. "Pickles" is the mascot of the team and the uniform was given him by Mr. George Hermann, the clothier.

The high wind Saturday made the judging of high flies almost impossible. Dock Abbott dropped Heller's fly and Brown scored, but Heller was thrown out at second by Abbott.

In the first inning Snyder was caught off of first. Lefty was excused, though, for the ground was wet and he slipped, when he tried to beat the ball back.

Gygil's putout of Gowdy's liner in the second was a pretty bit of work and Gygil was loudly applauded.

The work of Umpire Sheldon deserved all the criticism it got. He was very poor on balls and strikes. There was one nice thing about it though, neither side got the worst of it.

Even if the Molders didn't win the pennant last year, a flag flies at the mast head. The American flag looks good over the grand stand, and many people have noticed it.

In the second inning the Molders batted around on Scanlon. Only three runs were scored however, instead of six the previous day.

Panabaker looks good. The youngster struck out six men and allowed eight hits.

It was a dandy Sunday and a good crowd saw the game. While there were a few knockers present, the majority of the people stuck by the Molders all the time and encouraged them with their rooting. The team appreciates it and it only goes to show that the fans of Newark are a mighty loyal lot, all the time.

Beeman caught Biery off second by a very classy throw to Murray. Beeman looks good, and pitched nice ball yesterday, even though he was working against big odds.

Sunday was Dowling's hard luck day, and the kid is sore at himself. That is more than the fans are, for they like him and know that he is an earnest worker all the time, always on his toes and taking chances that some other fielders never think of. Dowling's alright, only Sunday was his off day, and he will not have another in six months.

OTHER GAMES

Lima 9, Springfield 7.
Springfield, April 27.—Timely hitting, aided by battery errors, clinched Saturday's game for the Cigar Makers. Botsford . . . 17 runs from the box in the fourth and the southpaw, Agier, could not stem the tide. Score:

Springfield 2, Lancaster 0.
Springfield, April 27.—In a pitchers' battle Sunday Springfield shut out Lancaster. Both teams played fast ball. Springfield fans are warming up to the local bunch. Twelve hundred paid to get in today and it looks as if the club is to have a successful summer. Piper, the Lancaster catcher, was hurt in the latter part of the game, a finger being dislocated. Score:

Springfield	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Moeller, Totman. Stolen base: LaRue. Two base hit: Moeller. Double plays: Mercer to Bohannon; Latimer to Bohannon. Struck out: by Mercer 10; by Justus 7. Hit by pitched ball: Heath. Umpires: Handboe and Milligan. Time 1:55. Attendance: 1200.	3	0	0	0	0	0

Marion 11, Mansfield 4.
Marion, O., April 25.—After Mansfield had apparently clinched the game Saturday, Marion started in at the seventh inning and by simply clouting the ball all over the lot scored eight runs. Ketter, a catcher from St. Louis, played his first game and started the scoring for the locals with a home run. Seven singles, a double and "Windy" Lothshaw's home run with the bases full were features of the seventh inning. The score:

Marion	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Parrel, Wolfe 2, King, Tate, O'Day, Lothshaw 2, Wilson, Ketter 2; Channell, Biery; Gorman, Breymaier. Stolen base: Channell. Two base hits: King 2, Ketter 2, Parrel, Channell, Phelan. Bases on balls: off Lucas 4, off Phelan 1. Hit by pitcher: Gorman. Umpire: Milligan. Attendance: 500.	3	0	0	0	0	0

Marion 5, Lima 4.
Marion, April 27.—Burke's fine pitching and a mighty swat by Lothshaw won a pretty contest with Lima here Sunday. The local infield blew up in the fifth inning and Lima scored four runs. In the sixth, however, Marion came back strong and when the inning closed they had batted in four runs. The fielding of Ferrill was a particular feature. Score:

Marion	ab.	r.	h.	po.	a.	e.
Farrell, King, Tate, O'Day, Lothshaw, Jude, Kinninger, Thierre, Garvey. Stolen bases: Wilson, Jude. Two base hit: Farrell. Three base hit: Lothshaw. Double play: O'Day to Wolfe to Lothshaw. Struck out: by Burke 6; by Garvey 6. Sacrifice hits: Wolfe Farrell 2; Newnam, Garvey. First base on balls: off Burke 2, off Garvey 3. Hit by pitched ball—Kahl. Passed ball: Kettler. Umpire: Sheldon. The Sure Shot baseball team of Highwater, defeated the Hayes team of Newark Sunday on the Farmers' ground, 16 to 4. Batteries, Newark: Jones, Huffman. Kibler and Suttle; Highwater, Lewis and Dresback.

SNOW STORM

Visits Northwest and Many Fruit Crops are Killed—Street Car Service Crippled.

St. Paul, Minn., April 27.—The Northwest was visited by a heavy snow storm last night and today. In some parts of St. Paul street car service was crippled. In country districts the ground was covered by several inches of snow which was accompanied by a gale.

Superior, Wis., got one of the heaviest snow storms of the year.

In Iowa heavy damage was inflicted by hail and a snow storm. Many fruit crops are killed.

FIRST BISHOP OF NEW YORK DIOCESE

He Was Imprisoned by Napoleon and Never Reached His Field of Labor. Thorny Path of Bishop Dubois.

Pontifical Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral — Forty Thousand Catholics to Parade — The Pope to Send His Blessing.

BISHOP LUKE CONCANEN.

STUPENDOUS is the word required to describe the growth of the Roman Catholic diocese of New York, which begins April 28 the celebration of its centennial. One hundred years ago, when Pope Pius VII. created the diocese, which then included the states of New York and New Jersey, there were in the two states but seven priests, four or five churches and about 10,000 Catholics. There was one bishop accredited to this vast territory, but he was in Europe and never reached his diocese in person. Today in the same territory there are nine bishops, 2,609 priests, 1,500 churches and about 3,500,000 Catholic people.

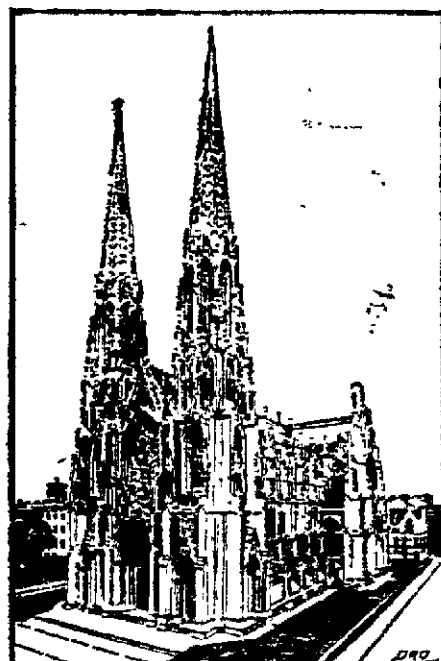

This remarkable growth has been due not alone to immigration, but also in large measure to the religious tolerance guaranteed by the constitution of the United States and closely adhered to by successive administrations of the civil government.

Prior to April 8, 1808, when the New York diocese was created, the territory included therein had been under the jurisdiction of the archbishop of Baltimore. From time to time new dioceses have been formed out of portions of the original territory, so that at present the New York diocese, now an archdiocese, includes only the city of Greater New York exclusive of the Long Island boroughs, several counties up the state and, oddly enough, the Bahamas Islands.

The only Catholic church in New York city in 1808 was the now celebrated old St. Peter's, in Barclay street, far down toward the southern end of Manhattan Island, surrounded by skyscraping commercial monsters of architecture. The next year, however, the original St. Patrick's cathedral was instituted. This church was built upon a site in Mott street, between Broadway and the Bowery road, then on the northern outskirts of the city. The cornerstone was laid June 8, 1809. Six years later the cathedral was completed and dedicated. Both St. Peter's and the old St. Patrick's still stand, interesting and revered edifices commemorating the beginnings of Catholicism in New York. They are shrines to which thousands of Catholics journey.

The first bishop of New York never enjoyed the satisfaction of arriving in his see. Pope Pius named to the bishopric the Rev. Luke Concanen, an aged Irish priest residing in Rome. Napoleon Bonaparte at that time was master of Europe. The Corsican conqueror imprisoned the pope, ordered the college of cardinals to reside in Paris and in other ways sought to manage the church to suit his fancy. Bishop Concanen made many attempts to get out of Italy and reach his diocese, but without success. The aged bishop was imprisoned at Naples, where he died of grief and disappointment. Meanwhile his vicar general, the Rev. Anthony Kohlmann, had administered the affairs of the diocese of New York.

Finally a new bishop was consecrated. The Rev. John Connolly, a Dominican monk long resident in Rome, was appointed to the see in 1814. Napoleon's downfall the next year enabled him to reach New York in November, and for ten years Bishop Connolly was the resident and active administrator over the church in the two states. He traveled over his territory by Hudson river packet, by coach and on horseback. One of his stations was in the wilderness of the Adirondacks. Others were at Albany, Utica and Buffalo. Bishop Connolly lived in a Broadway house, where his geniality and liberal spirit attracted many travelers, not only of his own faith, but of others.

Bishop Connolly died early in 1825. The Very Rev. John Power, pastor of St. Peter's, a handsome, eloquent, highly popular Irish priest, administered diocesan affairs until the appointment of a successor to Bishop Connolly. The communicants were mostly Irish people, and they confidently expected that tops of the spires. The edifice, with the residences of the archbishop and canons at the rear, covers the entire block bounded by Fifth and Madison avenues and Fifth and Fifty-first streets.

The facade of the cathedral is composed of a central gable 156 feet high, with towers on each side, crowned with spires that rise to a height of 330 feet. A chime of bells, the finest in the country, is in the towers, 110 feet above the grade of the avenue.

St. Patrick's is cruciform in shape, with a nave that is 164 feet long, 98 feet wide between the east side aisle walls and 124 feet broad if the side aisle chapels are included. The length of the transept is 140 feet, with a height of 108 feet. The seating capacity of the nave and transepts is about 2,500. The organ gallery, between the front towers, is twenty-eight feet long and is arranged for a choir of 100 singers.

The high altar is one of great beauty and is at the eastern end of the cathedral, in the center aisle of the choir. The clergy of the diocese presented the reredos, which is twenty-three feet wide and fifty feet high. It is in Portland stone and was carved in St. Brieux, France. The altar proper is of Italian marble, inlaid with alabaster. The tabernacle in the altar is marble, decorated in Roman mosaics and flanked by columns of rare marbles. Under the floor of the sanctuary is a crypt intended for the entombment of the archbishops of New York. Here Cardinal McCloskey lies buried.

Against the first column inside the sanctuary is the archbishop's throne, a beautiful work in carved oak imported from France. On the epistle side, at the first column outside the sanctuary of the main altar, is the pulpit. This was the gift of the clergy of the diocese over which Cardinal McCloskey presided when he was archbishop. It is a memorial to the cardinal's fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Within this magnificent marble edifice on the morning of April 28 the American hierarchy will join with Archbishop Farley and his people in a general thanksgiving. The formal observance of the centenary will begin at 11 o'clock with a pontifical mass of thanksgiving. Cardinal Logue will be the celebrant. Cardinal Gibbons will preach, and Mgr. Falconio, papal delegate, will assist at the mass.

The pope will crown the ceremonies with a special blessing that will be imparted in his name by Mgr. Falconio. The same evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be pontifical vespers, and the papal delegate will be the celebrant. Archbishop John J. Glennon of St. Louis will preach.

Wednesday will be children's day. On that morning delegations of little Catholics from every parish in the city will march to the cathedral and, as their parents will have done the day previous, join in thanksgiving. There will be a solemn mass at 10 o'clock, and a choir composed entirely of parochial school pupils will sing the various parts of it. The choir has been organized and trained under the direction of Father Young, a Jesuit.

That night the most important of the public functions will be held at Carnegie Music hall. It will be a general meeting of the Catholic citizens of New York, to which distinguished non-Catholics have been invited. Ex-Judge Morgan J. O'Brien will preside. The principal addresses will be made by Cardinal Logue, Archbishop Farley, W. Bourke Cockran, John J. Delaney and Dr. James J. Walsh.

On Thursday morning, April 30, there will be requiem services at the cathedral for the deceased bishops and priests of the diocese. In the evening the Catholic club will throw open its doors in honor of the visiting prelates.

On Saturday afternoon the festivities will close with a May day procession, in which at least 40,000 Catholic laymen will march. It will be headed by a committee of 100 members of the Catholic Club and will be reviewed by whip under his coat and proceeded to the Herald office with the intention of chastising the editor, but luckily Mr. Bennett was not in. For years editor and archbishop thundered against each other, the one with the pen and the other from the pulpit.

Archbishop Hughes began the erection of the magnificent St. Patrick's cathedral on Fifth avenue at Fifth street. He was opposed at first on the ground that the location was too far out of the city. The civil war caused a cessation of the great work, and the cathedral was left for Cardinal McCloskey to complete. In the words of the Rev. Dr. Smith, who is a well known Catholic author:

"In the space of two decades he had performed a work for which his country and his church can never be too grateful. He had organized the great machine which had to deal with the rushing tide of immigration and so perfected it that the state without a cent of expense found its citizens trained and prepared for citizenship. To him is due the credit of having found 300 priests for the five dioceses of the province, of establishing the immigrants safely in their new homes, of keeping them from flight to the west and of preparing them in schools and colleges for their new importance. He fixed the tenure of church property after a fight with State Senator Brooks so that the question never came up again to plague the people and the politicians. He prevented Know Nothingism from getting a footing in New York. He presented his case in every dispute to the American people and won their sympathy from the start. He was invincible in a fight, and he held a firm, enthusiastic faith in the republic."

It is the belief of Catholic historians that Archbishop Hughes would have been the first American cardinal had he lived, to the close of the civil war. In the early days of the war he foresaw the peril to the republic which the rebellion involved, and he was one of the staunchest and most powerful friends of the Federal cause. President Lincoln sent him to Europe to use his influence in creating a friendly sentiment toward this republic. The president, it is said, delicately intimated to the pope that Dr. Hughes was a fit candidate for a cardinalate, but at the time European sentiment was strongly against the Federal government. The archbishop died Jan. 3, 1864, more than a year before the surrender of General Lee vindicated his course and established the wisdom of his adherence to the government. A bronze statue has been erected at Fordham to the memory of the great archbishop.

Archbishop Hughes was succeeded by John McCloskey, bishop of Albany. This prelate was a modest man of somewhat frail physique, quite unlike his aggressive predecessor. His administration was successful, and in 1873 the attention of both Europe and America was concentrated upon New York when Archbishop McCloskey was elevated to the college of cardinals. Up to that time America had had no representative in the sacred college. The papal favor thus bestowed upon the head of the church in New York called worldwide attention to the growing importance of the American republic and the rapid development of the church in the new world.

Some of the cardinal's friends presented him with a coach and horses such as the cardinals in Rome employ when they go forth in public as princes of the church. In democratic New York the equipage created more amusement than anything else, and after a leading Catholic editor had denounced it as an invasion of republican simplicity by monarchical luxury Cardinal McCloskey gladly discontinued its use. The cardinal completed and opened the new St. Patrick's cathedral. He died in 1885 and was succeeded in the administration of the New York archdiocese by Michael Augustine Corrigan, who held the see until his death in 1902. Archbishop Corrigan enlisted the support of wealthy Catholics and built the great seminary at Dunwoodie. He did able work for the archdiocese in many directions. His administration was made notable by the dispute with Father Edward McGlynn, who advocated the Henry George theories of land taxation.

John M. Farley, the present archbishop, succeeded Dr. Corrigan. His work follows the lines of his predecessor in many directions, but also has branched out into new fields. He has opened a college for the special training of boys intended for the priesthood and has been foremost in the movement to create a great Catholic encyclopedia, the second volume of which has been published.

TASTES LIKE CANDY THOUGH CURES YOU OF INDIGESTION

Diapiesin Will Make You Eat and Then Digest Every Bite for You, Leaving Nothing to Ferment and Sour.

Of course, if you insist upon waiting until you have tried all the so-called digestive tablets, bitters, curals, etc., before you really make up your mind to get rid of your stomach trouble, there is nothing to hinder you. But listen!

You haven't Catarrh of the Stomach, or Nervousness, or Gastritis, or Cancer, etc. Prove this by taking one 22-grain Triangle of Diapiesin after your very next meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, acid Stomach—Food fermentation—that every bite you ate turned to Stomach gas, Stomach poison, and Acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, Difficulty in breathing after a meal, Headaches, Belching, Heartburn, Nauseous Breath, Water brash, Biliousness, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach, and many other bad feelings.

THE ATLANTIC FLEET

J. B. Connolly's Impressions of Its Great Cruise.

FINEST IN WORLD'S HISTORY

Even While Passing Through Dangerous Magellan Strait the Ships Kept Their Prescribed Spaces—Views of Southern Neighbors.

James B. Connolly of Gloucester, Mass., noted as a writer of sea stories and a close friend of President Roosevelt, left Admiral Evans' fleet at Magdalena Bay after having traveled with the ships from Hampton Roads as the civilian representative of the president. He arrived at San Francisco by train the other night and gave this statement of the fleet:

With the coming to anchor in Magdalena Bay of the Atlantic fleet a great cruise ended. To be sure, the vessels later, after a parade of the west coast, have to complete the circumnavigation of the globe by the way of the east and the Suez canal, but that will be child's play compared with what they accomplished in leaving Hampton Roads, holding the fleet formation all the way and making the 13,000 mile itinerary in schedule time.

Here is the problem: Sixteen battle-ships of five classes and as many sizes, speeds and equipments. Were suddenly called upon to get ready for sea. Most of them were preparing for fall target practice and had been looking forward to the winter West Indian cruise. Most of them had their systems of internal communication yet to install. Under these conditions they left for sea with many variations and important parts uncompleted. A good deal of this work they finished during the cruise by their own men in addition to the hundred other duties. To take this fleet around was the duty of some hundreds of officers, young and old, experienced and otherwise, and 15,000 men, of whom half probably had never before been to sea.

For eight weeks this fleet proceeded in a formation which allowed only 250 yards of clear water between the stern of one ship and the bow of the next behind, all this time steaming at 10, 11 or 12 knots an hour except on rare occasions, when they slowed down for some extraordinary reason, and then only for the shortest time. And that 250 yards interval had to be preserved at all hazards, for if the officer of the deck allowed a ship to fall more than forty yards out of position he was compelled by the commander in chief's order to hoist an indicating pennant, which of course no officer cared to do if he could avoid it.

Now, it did not matter whether it was night or day, clear weather or foul, that close interval had to be maintained.

The passage of the Magellan strait, of the perils of which so much has been said, was made by the fleet at regulation speed at regulation intervals. The worst part of that passage, making from the strait into the Pacific, was made at night in the usual formation in a fog and at 10 knots an hour without one ship for a single instant endangering the safety of the next in line.

Another thing, this fleet impressed as no one thing ever did before upon the minds of the people of the South American republics the military power of the United States. This is the case at Trinidad, Rio de Janeiro, Punta Arenas and Callao. At Valparaiso the fleet had not arranged to stop, but the people were treated to as grand a display as any of the more favored ports. They were steamed in one side of the harbor, across the water front and out the other side, while 200,000 people gathered from the various parts of Chile stood and watched. No less than the size and power of the fleet did the behavior of our sailors ashore leave their impression upon the South American people.

At every port the men were given liberty. At no port did they reflect anything but credit upon the service and the nation. They were clean, well set, intelligent looking, well behaved young fellows, three or four thousand Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the Stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on the case of Pape's Diapiesin, which costs only 50 cents anywhere in this city. Read what this effective Stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the Stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churning; absolutely removes every corrupting or tainting element, and will digest for you 3,000 grains of any kind of food.

Get a case of Diapiesin now, then eat anything you want at your next meal, and you will not suffer from Indigestion or Stomach trouble. Each bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and Stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of Indigestion and Stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

or them some days, making the rounds of the shops, museums, anything, any place that would interest the young fellow eager to see the world. And among all these thousands so few of them played the rowdy that we all had to feel proud of them.

"The United States must be a great and good nation," they said everywhere, "if these are their young sailors."

The Monroe doctrine became to them much more palpable because of the impression made by our officers and men. Undoubtedly we will have to interfere or at least be asked to interfere for generations yet in South American political affairs, and because of this cruise these southern people will appeal to us with more force.

This great fleet of ours in its personnel and material is unquestionably the highest class afloat. Its great cruise just finished has furnished another concrete illustration of American efficiency. It has raised the standard of military efficiency for the fleets of the world. It is the greatest naval cruise of the history of the world, and at no time could it have failed to make a faster schedule.

Thus on the last leg from Callao to Magdalena Bay no trouble was experienced in beating the schedule by two days, and even at that the fleet could have come several knots faster. It must also be remembered that during all this while all branches of the service were keyed up to the same high degree of efficiency.

LAND SEEKERS EXCURSION TO NEW MEX. MAY 5

Large numbers of Central Ohio people are becoming interested in the agricultural possibilities of the great Southwest, and a number of Licking county men who recently visited New Mexico, have purchased large tracts of land which are yielding good returns.

In many instances people are given gorgeous descriptions of Southern and Western lands by irresponsible agents who, by all sorts of means, unload worthless property upon investors, but I ask nobody to buy "pig in the poke." I ask those who have a little money to invest to get on the train with my party on Tuesday, May 5, and go to Las Vegas, N. M., and look at a splendid realty proposition.

The land is highly productive, the country is rapidly filling up with Eastern people, town lot sites are soaring in value and farm property is showing rapid gains.

The railway facilities are good. We go to Chicago and there board a train which lets us off at Las Vegas forty hours later. The trip is easy and delightful. The fare is $41.25 and the expense of the trip will be refunded to all purchasers of land.

This proposition has been approved by many hard-headed Licking county people who know a good thing when they see it. Please remember all I ask is that you go and see and decide for yourself. Tickets are good returning 25 days later.

If interested in this next trip which starts from Newark Tuesday morning May 5, call upon or address:

POPCORN LEGISLATORS' DIET

Half a Bushel on Ear a Day Consumed in Oklahoma Houses.

The Oklahoma house of representatives, which meets at Guthrie, will continue to eat popcorn, this too, despite the heroic efforts recently made by Representative T. F. Vandever of Bartlesville, former speaker of the Arkansas house and the man who gave Jeff Davis the closest race he ever had for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"This continual eating of popcorn and the practice of the members in exploding the empty bags during speech-making detract from the dignity of the house and should be stopped," he asserted.

Speaker Murray was Vandever's principal opponent.

"The state constitution was made up on a diet of popcorn," said Murray dramatically.

"If that be so," yelled Harvey Utterback, Republican, of Kiefer, "then the practice of eating it should be discontinued at once!"

"This is no trivial matter, I tell you," called Armstrong of Kiowa, supporting Vandever. But, pleaded as they would, a motion by Kapp of Lawton to lay Vandever's resolution on the table was carried.

Vandever demanded a roll call, but a rising vote was taken instead, and popcorn was kept on the house bill of fare by a vote of 46 to 29. Members of both houses of the legislature eat popcorn all the time during sessions.

Even the press tables are covered with it at times, and all the legislative clerks eat abundantly of it. It is figured by the local popcorn vendors that it takes from a half bushel to three pecks of corn on the ear daily to supply the legislature's demands for the popped product.

MONUMENT TO GULLS.

Salt Lake City's Plan to Commemorate Pioneer Experience of 1848.

The people of Salt Lake City propose to erect a monument commemorating the harvesting of the first intermountain crops by the Mormon pioneers in the summer of 1848. Just before the crops matured great hordes of crickets swooped down upon them from the north. Quick destruction was threatened, when suddenly from the west came an immense flight of gulls, which settled in the fields and remained for several weeks, destroying the crickets and saving the crop.

The earliest Utah legislation included laws declaring the gull to be a sacred bird and placing a heavy penalty on any one caught molesting it, says Collier's Weekly. Many thousands nest in the desolate islands of the Great Salt lake. The enrichment at the top of the Corinthian column that takes the place of the conventional leaves is of alighting gulls; and the bronze panels at the base carry the story of the planting of the first western crop, the despair of the planter when the harvest was being eaten by crickets, showing his wife weeding a fall in a despairing effort to beat back the devastating horde, and the joy again when it was finally gathered in after the gulls had come.

Another panel shows the planting of the first crop ever raised by irrigation by the Mormons in Utah, and a final panel shows the harvesting of the crop.

NO SUCH THING AS PULLING.

Sir Oliver Lodge Says It's Pushing That Moves Things Along.

Sir Oliver Lodge, the English scientist, has opened up a new subject of discussion. In an address the other day he said that there was no such thing as pulling.

To speak of a horse pulling a cart was, he said, incorrect. The horse did not pull the cart. It pushed against its collar and thereby produced motion in the cart.

Similarly the carman pushed the water, and the man drawing a handcart had to clasp the handle, and the driving force was caused by the part which clasped the handle and was therefore behind it.

Even if the cart was fastened to the man's coattail he did not pull it. He pushed against his clothes.

Parisian Beauty Aid.

Now it's the face stretch. This newest aid to beauty has become the rage in Paris and doubtless will gain wide vogue in the United States. It is guaranteed to make the average woman past thirty look ten years younger. The best of it is you can do it yourself. It consists of stretching the skin of the face toward the top of the head. Of course that makes folds, but they are hidden in the hair, and the face is left as smooth as a schoolgirl's. It's simple enough, yet it requires care and patience. Begin at the base of the throat and rub gently upward until the hands meet on the crown. Don't rub the nose. Let the hands part far enough to slide on each side of it. But the cheeks must be pushed upward, and so must the corners of the eyes. When the hands arrive at the top of the head, lift them and begin at the throat. The rubbing should be extremely light at first, but should become heavier by nice degrees. Don't try to do all the stretching the first day or the first week. It takes three weeks to finish the task. But when it's done the result rewards the effort.

TRAMP HERO SAVES LIFE OF CHILD

Clarence Miller Jumps in Front of Flying Train at Risk of His Life

Daring Deed of Man in Search of Work May Win Him a Carnegie Medal and Prize—Will Circulate Petition.

Clarence Miller, a tramp, at the risk of his life, jumped in front of the Pennsylvania "Cannon Ball" through train for New York, Sunday evening, grasped the 4-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, and pulled it from death under the wheels of the iron monster, just as the train whizzed by, not ten feet distant, at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

"If it had killed me it wouldn't have made so much difference, but I couldn't bear to see the little kid get it."

Such were the remarks of Miller to the parents of the child, who, with tears of gratitude coursing down their cheeks, clasped their babe in their arms. Then Miller patted the child on the cheek, turned and trudged on, down the track to continue his search for employment. Miller, whose search is unknown, but who came here on foot from Columbus, is a machinist by trade and is now in the city looking for employment.

His deed of heroism was witnessed by several persons, including the father of the child.

PLAYING ON CATTLE GUARDS.

At 6:30 Sunday evening, Mr. Thompson, the child's father, and Mr. James Sherrard, a neighbor, were looking over a truck garden bordering the railroad track near Twenty-first street. Mrs. Sherrard was present, and observed the two Thompson children, one aged six years, and the other but four, playing near the cattle guards at the crossing. The younger child was crawling up the slats on the side of the guard, when, to her horror, Mrs. Sherrard saw the "Cannon Ball" crashing down the level track at a terrific rate of speed. She also observed the strange man walking down the "west" track at a shambling pace.

The father of the child, noticing its perilous position, shouted to it, and the little one, hearing the warning, started to climb down the guard directly onto the track.

ATTRACTED BY SCREAMS.

Mrs. Sherrard in her frantic attempt to scream which attracted the attention of Miller, who was walking the track. At that time the train was about 75 feet from the child and Miller was possibly a third of this distance. Without an instant's hesitation Miller began bounding up the track toward the child. On alighting the train, he went down toward the cattle guards and its peril on ran Miller as though his soul depended upon it. Then, as he dashed across the cattle guards, the child shrieked from him, but he grasped it firmly with one hand, and, jerking it from the perilous place, staggered off the track as the

EIGHTY-THIRD

Anniversary of Birth of John Taylor Celebrated Sunday—Elegant Repast Served.

The 83rd anniversary of the birth of Mr. John T. Taylor was celebrated at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. W. Dicken, in Licking township, on Sunday, April 26, by his children, nieces and nephews.

The affair, which was a most enjoyable one, was gotten up by the children of Mr. Taylor's deceased brother, James.

Among those present was Mr. Stephen Gill, a life long friend of Mr. Taylor. He is 86 years old and enjoyed the celebration as much as his friend.

The feature of the anniversary was the big dinner which was served. Those present were Mrs. Thomas Clinis and daughters Helen and Maud. M. C. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Taylor of Hebron, Mrs. L. E. Marsh of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. William Lar-

BEING RECEIVED BY STUDENTS OF THE DISTRICT SCHOOLS OF COUNTY.

Prospects for Good Crops are Bright in Granville Township—News of College Town.

Granville, O., April 27.—Proud and happy young people are now receiving their diplomas from the "district" schools and from the schools which are closing in the villages of the county. To be a graduate is the goal that is set by many students these days, and every year finds higher ambition awakened in the boys and girls and renewed interest on the part of the parents that their sons and daughters shall be kept in school until they have completed the prescribed course of study. Licking county has a splendid, conscientious set of educators, who strain with might and main to bring our schools up to the standard of modern educational requirements. Better salaries, the demand that the teachers should be specially fitted for their work, have made great changes in the teaching profession. The day has gone by when anybody can teach school or the man who was not fit to undertake other work turned his attention to teaching. Today the teacher is at the front of all professions and the weaklings and incompetents are fast going to the wall.

The country around Granville has presented a scene of industry during the past week. There has been splendid weather, and men, women and children have been out in the fields at work. Every bright sunny day has been hailed with great rejoicing. Scarcely a day in the history of Granville township have the prospects looked brighter than this season. Should May prove as propitious as April has been, there will be great rejoicing over the crop outlook.

The many friends in Granville of Mr. Jano Buckland will be sorry to learn that his services in the Perry grocery with which he has been connected for so long a time, have been dispensed with. James is well liked by everyone in the village.

Perhaps one of the proudest sights that has been witnessed in Granville this year has been provided at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, where, on the lawn, in front of the house there is a magnolia tree that has been in full bloom. The flowers are large and fragrant, and the sight has attracted many persons.

Among the Granville people who were in Coshocton last week, in attendance at the Women's Presbyterian Mission convention, were Mrs. Sarah Sinnett, Mrs. Emma K. Little and Mrs. Warner Ford, Miss Maria Nickel representing the Christian Endeavor Society.

Officers of Maple Grove cemetery have been elected for the year as follows: President, T. Beaz Jones; secretary, W. J. Pond; treasurer, F. H. Buxton. Mr. Pond declined to serve, and E. S. Reed was re-elected.

A LONG LIFE

How to Conserve Energy and Prolong Life.

The time comes to every one when the life forces begin to fall. It is a little harder to climb a hill or walk up stairs. Exercise is taken less vigorously or abandoned, and we feel that the end of active service is drawing near.

It is more than probable that we have been over-driving the machine of the body which will give out like any machine if overtaxed, and we should immediately take steps to change the gear, build up the strength and restore the life forces. To this end nothing equals our delicious cod liver and iron preparation, Vinol, which is far superior to all other tonics and cod liver preparations because it is made by a scientific, extractive concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with peptonate of iron all the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak run-down persons after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles Vinol is unequalled.

THE OLD DRUM CORPS.

A feature of the procession of the "Old Boys in Blue," on Decoration day, will be the martial music. For several years this well known and always expert accompaniment to the "old boys" on their marches and ceremonies, has been neglected, and through their able commander, Homer D. Place, Lumber Post, G. A. R., this year, has played the matter of supplying the martial music in the hands of Major (Square) J. Shannon Longman, and the squads at the cemetery will be supplied with a drummer and fifer. The major promises 15 men in line, including two drummers, and the "old boys" can march out to the inspiring music they all love.

BUCKEYE PARK

OPENED SUNDAY FOR THE SEASON AND A GOOD CROWD VISITED RESORT.

Excellent Order Maintained, Concessions in Full Blast and Electric Display a Feature.

Beautiful Buckeye Lake Park opened Sunday for the season by entertaining an estimated number of 5000 people. Not an accident, or trouble of any kind marred the occasion, and even the weather man, who had considered sending a shower, on second thought took back his clouds and offered sunshine.

From early Sunday morning, cars for the lake from this city were crowded. Late Saturday night cars carried many cottagers and their guests to the resort that they might be there bright and early Sunday.

Columbus people flocked to the lake in great crowds, from Saturday night until late in the afternoon yesterday, while people living in the small towns surrounding, and in the country, made their way across by boat or drove to the park in carriages. Everyone was in gala dress and spirit, and the day marked one of the biggest openings in the history of the resort, general ground receipts far exceeding those of last year.

James Sheridan, ex-chief of the Newark police department, is chief of park police for the season at Buckeye Lake, and has a regular force of six uniformed officers, beside two plain clothes men on constant duty caring for the crowds and preserving excellent order.

Marsh's ten piece military band gave a concert during the afternoon which was a rare treat. The Sunday afternoon band concerts will now be a regular feature.

The new Harris hotel, while not quite completed, presented a beautiful appearance, and will doubtless be all ready for the entertainment of guests by next Sunday.

The lighting of the park grounds, which was done under the direction of Park Electrician Richard Thompson, is one of the principal beauties at night, as the lights are carefully arranged for pretty effects and there are plenty of them.

The water was in good shape for boating, and by shortly after the noon hour Sunday, all of the 216 row boats from the park boat house were out on the water. Fifty others are under process of construction and, judging from the natronage of the boat livery, they will all be needed. The complete fleet of nine yachts and launches of the Del Fisher Boat Line company were busy all day, and practically every private boat along the lake shores was pressed into service, until the body of the lake was a mass of pleasure craft.

With a very few exceptions the concessions were running in full swing and being well patronized.

The dining hall was rushed with business and excellent service marked this part of the accommodations, which is indeed a much demanded improvement. The management expects to feature a Sunday evening dinner throughout the season, the regular in car service going into effect as soon as possible.

The leading stations have been completely remodeled, so that, under ordinary conditions, when a reasonable crowd of people is to be loaded in the cars, there will be very little inconvenience. The small ways have been abolished and the leading stalls enlarged to quite an extent, the Newark cars being loaded on the east side of the pavilion and the Columbus passengers getting to their cars on the west side. Sunday, owing to the very great crowd, there was a part of the time when the police officers were kept busy keeping the crowds in order, but considering the number of people to be loaded, they were well cared for.

The cottagers about the lake are beginning to fill in for the summer, and many all season residents have taken up their homes, while other

THE OLD BOARD FENCE.

Mr. Finney had an old board fence, and the wood was growing brown; and he thought his only so'ace was to tear the whole thing down. But his wife, so very thoughtful, one day to her husband said: "If you'd save expense and labor, paint that fence with Spartan Lead. Spartan White Lead is the best White Lead made. Manufactured by The Marietta Paint and Color Co., Marietta, O. Sold by The Newark Paint Co., 31 W. Church street."

Holders of our Savings Passbooks are saved both time and trouble. They need not watch their deposits for fear the interest may stop; nor are they obliged to come to the bank to keep their interest alive. We never wait for customers to bring in their passbooks, but regularly, in January and July, we credit on our books all interest then due, so that it shall be ready for depositors whenever they call for it. When interest is not called for, we add same to the principal, and together both bear interest thereafter at the customary rate of 4 per cent.
